SAVE HAMMER THROW

Hammer throwing is too good a sport to be lost and it can easily be made less dangerous, thinks the retiring A. A. president, James E. Sullivan. He says: "We have had a few casualties in con-nection with hammer throwing, but not of such a nature as would warrant the discontinuance of this branch of compe-ition. On several occasions the wire tition. On several occasions the wire handle has snapped and several instances have occurred where a spectator has been nit. On this account some think it is a dangerous sport and should perhaps be think we can make the competition safe, at least in so far as the implement is concerned. The suggestion has been made that we enlarge the size of the wire; every other detail of the implement would be retained, but instead of the thin plano wire as at present a heavier variety would be substituted."
